LAPSED CREDENTIALS:

All counselors who had credentials, which terminated as a result of not meeting the recertification deadlines may purchase a manual from the Board and apply as a new counselor. All current requirements must be met and submitted with the new application. However, those counselors who took and passed the written and/or oral examinations can have their credential re-activated without re-taking the examination. If you grandfathered into any credential you will have to take the requisite test. This test exemption only applies to counselors who had previously passed the examination(s). The processing fee for a lapsed counselor credential is $300 for Level I and $425 for Level II.
